WINTER WEATHER TRAVEL ADVISORY
Xpress Services Are Suspended for Monday, January 26th Due to Anticipated Inclement Weather

ATLANTA – Due to anticipated inclement weather that will impact road conditions, the Atlanta-Region Transit Link Authority (ATL) will suspend all Xpress transit services and Xpress Customer Service for Monday, January 26, 2026. The State's top priority is the safety of roadway travelers, and this service interruption is occurring in an abundance of caution based on weather forecasts from the National Weather Service.

Xpress will only resume service once conditions are confirmed to be clear and safe for travel. We will provide an update on Xpress' Tuesday services based on GEMA guidance for hazardous conditions, closer to the end of the weekend.

Customers are encouraged to visit <https://xpressga.com/> check the XpressGA Service Alerts page, Xpress Facebook page, @XpressGA on Twitter, and to subscribe to XpressList email or text alerts for the latest service updates and news.

About the Atlanta-Region Transit Link Authority

The ATL is an authority of the state of Georgia, legislatively authorized to operate the state's Xpress regional commuter transit system and the Atlanta region's vanpool system. ATL also produces the Atlanta Region Transit Plan for the 13-county ATL region. For more information on Xpress and the ATL, visit <https://atltransit.ga.gov/> and follow us on X and Facebook.
